Herbert O. Dunn to be Advanced to Rank of Rear Admiral Today-Death of Amos Cross-G. A. R. Post at Funeral of Lorenzo Dow Richmond-Band Concert.

Captain Herbert Omar Dunn of Westerly will today (Friday) be ad-vanced to the rank of rear admiral in Westerly will today (Friday) be advanced to the rank of rear admiral in the United States navy, receiving the rank upon the retirement of Rear Admiral C. J. Badger, who reaches the age of 62 on that day. This will be the third commission for rear admirals within a month. Rear Admiral C. B. T. Moore was retired on Thursday and succeeded by Captain Albert Gleaves. Rear Admiral Augustus F. Fechteler was commissioned July 11 to succeed Rear Admiral Waiter C. Cowles.

Rear Admiral Waiter C. Cowles.

Rear Admiral Fechteler was born in Paderhorn, Prussia, in 1856, came to New York at the age of 8 and entered the naval academy from that state.

Rear Admiral Gleaves was born in Nashville, Tenn., on the first day of 1858. It was he who discovered the greatest depth of the Atlantic ocean and commanded the torpedo boat Gushing in the Spanish American war. He was awarded the diploma and cross of the Legion of Honor of France, but his acceptance has not been authorized by congress.

Captain Dunn was born in Westerly May 29 1857, and appointed Mrs. D. F. Hernon of New Bedford is the guest of her sister, Miss Katherine Murphy, of Liberty street.

The flag on the Memorial and Library building was at half mast Thursday in respect to the memory of Lorenzo Dow Richmond.

Captain Dunn was born in Westerly May 29, 1857, and appointed from Shode Island to the naval academy Rhode Island to the naval academy June 9, 1873, and commissioned captain July 1, 1999, and is now in command of the Wyoming. As commander of the battleship Idaho he navigated the Mississippi river for a greater distance than ever before achieved by a vessel of like size. He also was naval officer in charge of New York harbor and has been engaged in important sea and land service. The salary of captain is $4,000, while a rear admiral receives $8,000.

Amos Cross, a former resident of Westerly, died in a Providence hospital where he has been for the past 30 years. He was unusually bright as a young man and left school to defend the flag in 1863, and was commissioned second lieutenant of Company G, 11th Rhode Island infantry. He was a son of Attorney John H. Cross, and after the war he taught school in South Kingstown and studied law in the office of his father in Westerly. He became deranged and never recovered. came deranged and never recovered.
